ANNOUNCEMENT REGARDING TOKS' COMMITMENT TO ANIMAL WELFARE

We want to inform our groups of interest that for over two decades we have maintained a steadfast commitment to social responsibility, driving social and environmental initiatives that promote sustainability. One of these initiatives is our commitment to sourcing eggs from cage-free hens for our branches.

To fulfill this commitment, we have sought the expertise of an international organization specialized in establishing a supply chain that meets global standards. Thanks to this collaboration, we have made progress in identifying various suppliers and options to begin implementation in Oaxaca, Mérida, and Mexico City, while maintaining our standards of quality, safety, logistical efficiency, and competitive pricing.

Although the project was progressing as planned, unfortunately, the pandemic has caused severe disruptions in supply chains, and inflation has significantly increased costs. These challenges have impacted both our suppliers and our customers. The combination of these factors, along with high interest rates, has significantly reduced product availability and raised prices beyond what is currently viable to manage. Nevertheless, we reaffirm our commitment and are working to reassess timelines and strategies to ensure the project becomes economically viable again.

We are confident that supply conditions, quality, and prices will stabilize favorably in the near future. Throughout this process, we will maintain open and transparent communication with our groups of interest.
